

UNIASSELVI receives the maximum grade for potential offering of digital undergraduate course in Law

July 19, 2021

FLORIANÓPOLIS, Brazil, July 19, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Vitru Limited, or Vitru (Nasdaq: VTRU), today announced that the Brazilian Ministry of Education (Ministério da Educação), or the MEC, assessed and granted the highest grade (concept 5) in connection with the authorization process to allow Uniasselvi, the Vitru group's higher education institution and commercial brand in Brazil, to offer a digital undergraduate course in Law.

Part of the process with the MEC to allow Uniasselvi to offer a digital undergraduate course in Law was completed in early July. This differentiated and innovative project is an important milestone in the process to approve the offering of digital Law courses.

To assign the maximum grade, the MEC applied three criteria: Didactic-Pedagogical Organization, Faculty and Tutors and Infrastructure.

The next steps in this process are (i) the review of such evaluation process by the Seres (Secretaria de Regulação e Supervisão do Ensino Superior, or Secretariat for Regulation and Supervision of Higher Education); and (ii) the publication of the Ordinance related to completion of the legal regulatory procedures of the MEC in connection with the authorization process for the digital undergraduate course in Law, following which Uniasselvi will be authorized to offer the course to 22,200 students annually.

The latest data published by the MEC about undergraduate Law Courses showed that, in 2019, 744 thousand students were enrolled in private on-campus Law courses, comprising approximately 18% of all private undergraduate on-campus students. The authorization to offer digital undergraduate courses in Law is a significant opportunity for the digital education segment in Brazil.

Vitru is committed to continue delivering innovative and quality solutions for its students and is proud to have this reflected by this grade 5 awarded to Uniasselvi by the MEC.
